

FIELD POUCH

100mm
system

Filters are an essential part of the photographer's armoury, and keeping them clean and dry is a priority. In the past, accessibility has sometimes been a problem, as keeping filters close to hand and safe at the same time isn't always possible.

In order to overcome this problem, LEE Filters has introduced the Field Pouch – a sturdily made and invaluable accessory that ensure your filters remain free of dirt and dust, but are close by when you need them.

Constructed from a tough and durable fabric (available in black or sand) so that it can stand up to wear and tear, the Field Pouch features a concertina design, which, with one slot per filter (maximum of 10 filters) means the photographer's filters are easily accessible, thus allowing him or her to respond quickly to rapidly changing conditions.

Your filters will always be at your fingertips, thanks to the design that features three strap options: an over-the-shoulder strap, a belt loop, or a tripod strap that goes over a tripod head and ensures that filters are safe, dry and well away from any wet ground.
